The New Zealand Craftsman

Vol. XLVIII, No. 1.]

WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND, JUNE 1, 1942.

[A.D. 1942, A.L. 5942.]

THE CRAFT AND THE WAR.

IT is interesting to observe that in recent appearances at important Masonic gatherings in England, the M.W.G.M. (H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, KG.) has not lost the opportunity to stress the importance of the World War for the present and future welfare of the Craft as well as of the Empire and our Allies. In his remarks at the Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge of England in December last, and at the recent Installation meeting of the New Zealand Lodge in London, His Royal Highness referred to Masonic activities in the national cause, and indeed treated it as axiomatic that the interests of the Empire and the Craft are identical. We have no doubt whatever that the commonsense and innate convictions of Freemasons everywhere will endorse this attitude.

It is true that Freemasonry is universal in its appeal, and international in scope. It is not confined to any race or nation or country, and it is not committed to or bound up with any specific type of Government organisation. It is, however, also obvious that the universality of the Craft can extend only to those who accept its basic principles: the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. The Craft is willing to welcome as friends and potential brethren those who subscribe to these fundamentals, but those only. If, however, men individually or collectively, deny or flout God, then Freemasonry as such can have no part or lot with them. Neither, as long as they retain such belief, or absence of belief, do we, as Freemasons, have any obligation towards them of a specifically Masonic type.

Similar considerations apply in the case of those men or groups of men who repudiate our second fundamental principle of the brotherhood of men. It is hard to believe that in the present age there are countries of allegedly white civilization that reject this basic humanitarian principle. The Nazi idea of a Herrenvolk or master race does however seem to come into such a monstrous category. It would seem that the dominant party in Germany to-day regards the Germans as a sort of super-race, and other nations as of inferior quality, and fitted only to minister to the needs and desires of the master race. It is surely obvious that as long as such a view is held, those holding it can have no part or lot with Freemasonry, and indeed would not desire to do so. Those nations rejecting the ideals of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man clearly are, as long as they retain such views, outside the scope of Masonic universality, and the Craft as such owes them no specific duty.

Somewhat similar considerations apply, we suggest, in the realm of Government. Freemasons, both individually and collectively, could accommodate themselves with little difficulty to any rational system of civilized Government, provided it is compatible with the basic ideals on which the Craft depends. This is rendered all the easier by the fact that Freemasonry as we understand it takes no part whatever in political life, or in political issues, which are frequently of a contentious character, and quite properly so. Individual Freemasons do, and should, take part in Government and political controversy, but in their capacity as citizens, and not as members of the Order, and politics are left outside the door of the Lodge. The correct attitude in this matter has never been better summed up than in the following passage from an address delivered by the late M.W. Bro. J. J. Esson, whose memory is still so fresh among us:

"It is not the duty of Freemasonry to solve the problems of the State, or to become involved in its administration; but as a State can be improved only as its constituent members are made better, national service is rendered through the improvement of the individual."

In actual practice, however, the march of events and the rude clash of war may prevent the Craft from maintaining its neutrality in a benevolent secular atmosphere; and while this is not at the moment an imminent danger to us, it has happened elsewhere, and the "it can't happen here" outlook of futile optimism is one that is now being rapidly discarded. The safety of the Craft, from this point of view, is intimately bound up with the result of the war, and the measure of success that crowns the Allied arms. In countries of dictatorial type Freemasonry has been discouraged, suppressed, or driven underground. If as the result of adverse war happenings, this territory, for example, had a totalitarian Government imposed from without, or a dictatorial form of Government grown up from within, it cannot be assumed that the Craft would be permitted to function undisturbed in the future as it has done in the past.

In regard to internal problems, Freemasonry also has two principles of importance on which it relies, and these are freedom of the individual in speech and thought; and toleration of the opinions, speech and thought of others. Few are now so naive as to think that, if the democratic ideals for which the Allies are fighting were not to prevail, freedom and toleration would be permitted to survive. Such conceptions, among the most precious of civilized humanity, have already been swept away in countries that have come under the heel of the Nazi. That they would suffer likewise here in similar circumstances hardly admits of doubt.

It is on account of considerations such as these that responsible leaders of English-speaking Freemasonry see clearly that the issue of the present war touches us all very deeply not only as citizens, but as members of the Craft. A victory for the Allies means also a victory for the Craft, while any other outcome of the war raises issues for Freemasonry of a kind none of us would care to contemplate. The moral of this situation is plain. However repugnant in general terms war is to Masonic ideals, as indeed it is to all idealism whatever, there are greater evils than war. When our liberty, as citizens and Freemasons, is at stake; indeed, when it is a matter of our very existence as an organised body, there is no room for hesitation. All Freemasons to whom the Craft means something are under an imperative duty to get behind the war effort to the full extent of their power and ability.

CONSECRATION OF MASONIC TEMPLE AT WHANGAREI

A red-letter day in the history of Lodge Whangarei. No. 102, was 13th April, when the beautiful temple erected in 1934 was consecrated. The ceremony was performed by M.W. Bro. Nicholson, P.G.M., Prov.G.M., assisted by a number of Grand Lodge officers who had accompanied him from Auckland. At the conclusion of the ceremonial, which was carried out most impressively, the Prov.G.M. expressed joy that he had been permitted to consecrate a building the foundation stone of which he had laid.

In the evening M.W. Bro. Nicholson installed Bro. Eric Rudolf Stainton, W.M. of the Lodge, in the presence of a very large gathering of brethren, including representatives of many Lodges throughout Northland. V.W. Bro. G. Rowland Hutchinson, Jnr., G.D. of C., was Director of Ceremonies and W. Bro. L. R. Hegley, W.M., Lodge Parahaki, No. 269, and W. Bro. L. R. Le Ruez, W.M., Star of the North Lodge, No. 1647, E.C., were Presenting Officers. Other officers installed were: S.W., Bro. W. H. Calvert; J.W., Bro. J. S. T. Tudehope; Chaplain, W. Bro. J. A. Inkster; Treas., Bro. A. H. Kearne; Sec., W. Bro. P. S. N. Connell; D. of C., W. Bro. W. J. McLeod; S.D., Bro. E. Woledge; J.D., W. Bro. W. J. Dodd; Organist, W. Bro. R. T. Tudehope; I.G., Bro. J. Fuge; S.S., Bro. A. Fricker; J.S., Bro. A. Hilton; Tyler, W. Bro. A. H. Curtis. A very happy time was spent in the refectory.

News and Notes.

At the May meeting of Lodge Waimea, No. 266, V.W. Bro. F. C. J. Cockburn delivered a very instructive address dealing with the "Relationship of Symbols to the Craft."

The Company has sent the following circular letter, dated 27th April, to all Lodges, Chapters, etc., advertisers, and is self-explanatory: —

At a meeting of the Directors of the Company held on 24th April, 1942, the question of the greatly increased cost of printing and publishing "The N.Z. Craftsman" was considered.

The published price per annum of "The Craftsman," 10/-(including cost of postage) and Lodge advertisement rate, £1 (including copy of the paper) has remained stationary for many years. Both are very low figures, particularly the latter.

The cost of publication since 1936 has increased by at least 33½ per cent., and up to the present such increase has been borne by the Company, which of late years has been running at a loss.

Owing to war conditions, the Company is now faced with a further immediate increase of 40 per cent. for printing alone, and is no longer able to carry on without an addition to its revenue. The Directors, after most careful consideration, have decided to increase the Lodge advertisement rate to £1 7s. 6d. per annum, including a copy of the paper, as from the June issue. This small additional sum will not affect Lodge finance, but will be a very considerable help to the Company, and the Directors feel sure that all Masonic bodies will agree to the small additional charge.

The Directors do not propose to increase the rate of subscription at present. It is encouraging to report that, notwithstanding the difficult times through which we are passing, our circulation has slightly improved.

The Directors would be glad if Worshipful Masters and Officers of Lodges, etc., would endeavour to induce more of their members to become subscribers.

PRESENTATION TO R.W. BRO. J. A. NASH, PROV.G.M., RUAPEHU DISTRICT.

The Installation meeting of Lodge Te Awahou, No. 133, took place in the Masonic Temple, Foxton, on 16th May, when Bro. G. F. W. Smith, S.W., was installed as W.M. There was a very large attendance, the temple being taxed to its utmost capacity. The ceremony, conducted by R.W. Bro. J. A. Nash, Prov.G.M., and G.L. officers, was carried out in an impressive and dignified manner. What might be termed a unique record was the attendance of four brothers of the W.M.-elect, two of whom came by plane from Dunedin and the other two from North Canterbury, W. Bros. Charles and Edward taking part in the work.

Their presence was greatly appreciated by the brethren of the Lodge.

It being the 25th occasion on which R.W. Bro. Nash had conducted the Installation ceremony in this Lodge, the members made him a presentation of a beautiful Prov.G.M. jewel to mark the memorable event. The presentation was made by the Master, W. Bro. G. F. W. Smith, who referred in very eulogistic terms to the great interest R.W. Bro. Nash had taken in Lodge Te Awahou, further the fact that he was born in Foxton, reference was also made to his fine record of public service. R.W. Bro. Nash, in accepting the jewel said that he had been taken by surprise. He thanked them for their kind gift and considered that the Lodge had done him a great honour in inviting him, no less than 25 times, to conduct their installations. Congratulatory messages were read from the M.W. the Grand Master, R.W. Bro. H. A. Lamb, G.Sec., W. Bro. N. R. Bain, D. Dist. G.M., E.C., and many others.

In the refectory the usual toasts were honoured. The W. Master, in proposing the toast of the R.W.Prov.G.M., made special reference to his lengthy Masonic career, which extended over 44 years, he also enumerated the various offices held by him in Grand Lodge and his service and devotion to the Craft and stated he was expressing the sentiments of the brethren of the Ruapehu District and beyond its borders and trusted that R.W. Bro. Nash, in the not distant future, would still attain higher honours. A huge cake had been made supporting 25 candles. These were lit, the lights lowered, and the candles extinguished by the recipient. Feeling reference was made to the illness of Mrs. Nash, and a beautiful bouquet of flowers, prepared by wives of the Foxton brethren, was handed to the Prov.G.M. for transmission to Mrs. Nash. R.W. Bro. Nash very feelingly responded to the toast, expressed his sincere thanks to the Lodge and said he deeply appreciated the gift from the ladies to his wife.

R.W. Bro. Nash proposed the toast of the "Smith" family, pointing out how the sons had followed in the footsteps of their late father, who was a respected Past Master of Lodge Ashley. He also made some humorous references to each of the brothers and their callings in life. W. Bros. Charles, Edward and Bros Stanley and Arthur all responded to the toast each making a delightful speech and containing a great deal of humour.

The Installation of W. Bro. G. F. W. Smith will long be remembered by the brethren of the Lodge and all those who were in attendance.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Lamartine (1790-1869), French, poet, historian and statesman, although widely read in his day, is known but little to the moderns. He was of the romanist school, which we have outgrown. He was popular and commanded universal influence, which, however, he could not turn to his own advantage. Although not a Freemason, he had the greatest admiration for the institution.

"What is Freemasonry?" was once asked of him. His reply was: "I see only in the secrets of the Lodges a veil of modesty thrown upon truth and charity to heighten their beauty in the eyes of God and man. But for this modesty you would not conceal from men the secrets which your actions reveal. You are, in my opinion, the great eclectics of the modern world. You call from all time, all countries, all systems, all philosophies, the evident, eternal and immutable principles of universal morality, and you blend them into an infallible and unanimously-accepted dogma of fraternity. You reject everything that divides minds, and profess everything that unites hearts. You are the manufacturers of concord. With your trowels you spread the cement of virtue about the foundations of society. Your symbols are but figures. If I am not mistaken in this interpretation of your dogmas, the curtain of your mysteries might be drawn without the fear of revealing anything but services rendered to humanity."

—"The Northern Freemason."

WESTMINSTER LODGE, No. 308.

PRESENTATION OF UNIQUE ASHLARS.

Arrangements extending over many months culminated successfully on Friday, 15th May, 1942, at the 24th regular meeting of Westminster Lodge. There was no degree work, the whole evening being devoted to an interesting and unusual ceremony, the unveiling and dedication of the Lodge's ashlar, rough and perfect.

After the reception of the Provincial Grand Master, R.W. Bro. S. M. Stone, and Grand Lodge officers, and of R.W. Bro. J. W. Jack, District Grand Master, accompanied by District Grand Lodge officers of the English Constitution, the W. Master, W. Bro. C. M. Bowden, briefly explained the purpose of the meeting, acknowledging the help of M.W. Bro. Viscount Bledisloe, P.G.M., Bro. His Excellency Sir Cyril Newall, S.W., W. Bro. W. J. Jordan, High Commissioner for New Zealand in Great Britain, and the Rt. Rev. Bishop Paul de Labillière, Dean of Westminster, in obtaining the blocks of Thirteenth Century Reigate stone from which the ashlar had been fashioned. The stone had been taken from the ruined portion of Westminster Abbey, despatched to New Zealand, and there modelled, wrought into due form, and rendered fit for its intended purpose.

The W. Master concluded by delivering that part of the charge on the Tracing Board of the First Degree relating to the rough and perfect ashlar, and called upon V.W. Bro. David Calder, P.G.Chap., to deliver an address upon The Ashlar.

THE PERFECT ASHLAR.

We may study any one of the symbols depicted in our Lodges either as to its historic value, or as to its power to give us material upon which to moralise. From the historic point of view it is difficult to find very much that deals with the ashlar. "Plato," says an eminent Masonic writer, "thought of the world as a cube rather than as a sphere." St. John the Divine conceives the ideality of the world to come as featured in a celestial city that is a perfect cube—"the length, and the breadth and the height of it are equal." Just in what way Plato justified his idea we do not know; but the writer of the Apocalypse thought in the language of symbols, even as Masons do to-day, and his description can be taken as the true symbolic language of a seer. He means by his statement that the City of God has an inherent quality wherein the conditions are perfect, and perfectly proportioned the one to the other. If therefore even the historic value of our chosen symbol leads to the exaltation of moral values, we may safely give our time to study these with care.

The thoughtful craftsman will soon find that there is no symbol depicted in a Masonic lodge room, or considered in the Masonic body of thought that is quite so full of wholesome teaching as the Perfect Ashlar. The Stone is described in our ritual as being one of "true die or square, fit only to be tried by the square and compasses." This simply states that the stone is a perfect cube—that is, it is equal in length, breadth, and height; and, that it is a stone whose lines are in perfect proportion, each to all the others. This implies the further fact that the corners, and edge lines are cleanly cut and are in exact relation to the other corners and edge lines—each side being a perfect square. We may also presume that the stone itself is of good quality as a stone, and that the finishing and polishing of the surfaces have been attended to by the skilful and patient workman.

The teaching we give as to this symbol of so many good qualities, is set out in our ritual in the following terms: "This represents the mind of man in the decline of years after a life well spent in acts of piety and virtue, which can no otherwise be tried and approved but by the square of God's Word and the compasses of his own self-convincing conscience." Thus the Perfect Ashlar sets out what the worthy "elderly" brother- has become. His has been a good life—true, full and wholesome. Let us therefore consider its qualities in detail.

Length ! It is good that a man should desire a long life. The Volume of the Sacred Law gives it as the due gift of God to the righteous, and no one need question that it is both natural and wholesome to desire to live many years. We, who have known childhood, youth and manhood, should still look forward to full age, to the quieter years of advanced life, when the passing storms with their fret and worry have given place to the calm of evening, to the time when we may pursue our chosen pleasures without the necessity of having to toil for our pay. Our pleasures may be even strenuous hobbies, or they may mean doing little more than study and contemplation; but in either case life can, and should be, more and more desirable in its advanced years. The LENGTH of a man's life is good.

Breadth ! If, however, we would live many days, we must live each of them well. We want more than the thin long line of mere living. He is a happy man who has many interests—who adds to his business, due elements of sport, travel, culture and scholastic refinement, Such bring Breadth of Life. A man widens his outlook as he takes his part in the social and cultural welfare work of his community. To be a man of many parts, with each part well played, is to have breadth, and to be appreciated accordingly by one's fellows.

Height ! Still we want something more than length and breadth. Such excellent qualities may be found allied to thinness of being. To spread oneself over many interests may quite conceivably be consistent with shallowness of character, may find us living for the laudations of our fellows rather than with a genuine concern for their good. We must put our heart into the business. We must manifest a true desire to help our fellow men. In short, we must have "soul." Else, what we do, and what we are, is of little worth.

The Length, the Breadth and the Height are equal ! Have you ever tried to draw a perfect cube? Even the most expert draughtsman will generally fail to do so. Similarly, it is a task of the utmost magnitude for any man to bring his character into the cube of perfect human measurement. The task, nevertheless, is ours, and where a task is great the only thing to do is to work steadily and without remission to the end of life's day; and, as we do so, to seek the help of Almighty God. We may on some day of personal stocktaking surprise ourselves at the good success we have achieved.

"If only we strive to be pure and true, to each of us all there will come an hour when the tree of life will burst into flower, and rain at our feet a glorious dower of something grander than we knew."

To have lived a full life where age, experience, and the fraternal goodwill of our fellows have made it rich, is to be rich indeed. The life of the Grand Lodge Above is well described in Holy Writ as a cube: "The Length, the Breadth and the Height of it are equal." It is more than a life of mere goodness. It has its place for business, charity, intellectual attainments, and for the social amenities.

We need say but little about the Quality of the stone, for the teachings of the Craft have little to say about it. The reason is not far to seek. Our Order is composed of men chosen in the first place because they already were good men and true. I find only one indirect reference in our ritual to the quality of the material in the hands of the workman, and that is in a higher degree. It shows a supervisor, or overseer, testing the stone for its quality by striking it with his tool of office. We very naturally take a pride, each in h's own personal qualities, innate or acquired, and also in the stock from which we have sprung. Who will doubt that he is what he is, chiefly because he was so made. It is not paradoxical, however, to emphasise that we are not dead stone; but of a material that can in some measure be moulded by the supreme efforts of our lives. Happy is the' man who can live in constant thankfulness to the Great Architect because of a liberal natural endowment. Happier still the man who has used all his powers to such purpose that the Ashlar of his character has been fashioned, smoothed and polished to such purpose that it responds unfailingly to trial by the square of God's Word and the compasses of his own self-convincing conscience.

There still remain several important things to be said about the Perfect Ashlar: we choose three of them.

1. The Ashlar is always on its base, however upset it may have been. Thus it teaches us to meet every emergency of life with quiet dignity and fortitude. Each sudden experience should find us masters of ourselves and courteous to those with whom we have to do.
2. The polishing is never finished. The visitor to London who is fortunate enough to see the Grand Masonic Temple finds in it an example of finished art and beauty; but he is somewhat surprised to learn that stonemasons are continually at work polishing and re-polishing the lovely marble. Thus no brother dare relax the vigilance by which alone he can retain .the reputation of a workman who needeth not to be ashamed.
3. The finished Ashlar is suspended from a tripod in the West. It hangs between earth and heaven, ready for removal to the building for which it was hewn. The light of the Western Sun casts a soft, warm glow upon it, and makes it a thing of beauty.

A party of tourists had spent the greater part of an afternoon in Salisbury Cathedral. I was with them, and it seemed to me that the stately edifice had more sanctity about it than several others we had visited. It had an atmosphere of quiet holiness. The visit over, I lingered on the spacious lawn in front of the Western facade. I saw the individual stones as well as the whole front. Some of them were weather worn with age and some were lichen covered. I thought of the stonemasons and imagined one of them standing beside me, pointing out a stone he himself had worked. That evening I was walking in the Constable country to the West of the Cathedral, and being attracted by something unusual, I turned to see the noble pile of masonry gleaming a rich, opalescent pink. The evening sun had caught and transfigured the whole into a celestial temple of rarest worth, and each stone was perfect in beauty as well as honourable in place and position. May it be given to each of us thus to have a place in the Temple of God, graced finally with the Light that only the Divine Being can cast upon it.

Bro. His Excellency Sir Cyril Newall, Senior Warden of the Lodge, then addressed the brethren on the Abbey itself.

The task of compressing the history of Westminster Abbey into a short space of time will be appreciated, and in the time available it is only possible to pick out a few milestones.

"The Collegiate Church of St. Peter's, Westminster" (now Westminster School).

The earliest history of Westminster Abbey is based on the legend that it was built on the site of an old Temple of Apollo and later destroyed by an earthquake. The next information regarding the Abbey was that it was said to be founded about 616 and built by Masons for King Sebert of the Saxons, and St. Peter himself is said to have appeared to give his blessing. King Sebert's tomb is still shown in the Abbey.

The first undoubted reference to Westminster Abbey is in a charter issued by Offa, King of Mercia, dated 785, as "the Church of St. Peter on Thorney Island" (an island formed between the River Tyburn, the River Thames, and what was known as the Long Ditch, which was probably an artificial watercourse).

In 1050 Edward the Confessor started to build a new Church as a condition that the Pope should let him off a previous vow to make a pilgrimage to Rome. The Church was consecrated on the 20th December, 1065, though still incomplete. Edward the Confessor, who died on the 6th January, 1066, was buried in the new building. William the Conqueror was crowned in the Abbey on Christmas Day, 1066—all previous Saxon kings having been crowned in Winchester Cathedral, and every Sovereign since William the Conqueror, except Edward V, Edward VIII (who was never crowned at all), and possibly Mary I have been crowned in Westminster Abbey. The famous Coronation Chair was even used by Cromwell in 1657, but he removed it to Westminster Hall.

In 1220 Henry III started rebuilding the Church, which was not completed until 1269. Edward the Confessor's body was removed to its present site in the Chapel bearing his name. This new Church is the main part of the Abbey to-day.

In 1503 Henry VII started building the Lady Chapel, and the work was originally carried out by Freemasons under the direction of Robert Vertue, one of Henry's Master Masons. It has been described as the richest specimen of Tudor architecture. Henry VII had originally intended the Lady Chapel as a shrine for the body of Henry VI, who was expected to be canonised, the Pope having agreed to make him a Saint, but Henry VII refused to pay the sum demanded, and therefore decided to dedicate the Chapel to the Virgin Mary. Before it was finished he was buried there himself in 1509 in a tomb built by Torrigiano, who was paid £1,500 for his work. This Chapel is now the Chapel of the Order of the Bath, founded by Richard II, and is, I think, possibly the most beautiful part of Westminster Abbey. It contains stalls allocated to the senior members of the Order of the Bath, the banner of the present occupant hanging over the stall and the Coats of Arms of previous occupants being displayed on the back of the stall.

In 1517, one Islip, the last of the great Abbots, completed the Nave, and the interior of the Nave structurally is practically the same to-day. The Monastery was dissolved in 1540, and Queen Elizabeth established it as a Collegiate Church in 1560.

Many famous men have been educated at this School, including Jonson, Cowper, Dryden, Wren, Warren Hastings, Gibbon, etc.

As to the outside of the Abbey, Wren (who was a member of my Craft Lodge in England—the Lodge of Antiquity) added the western towers between 1713 and 1740, and the whole exterior was restored, though perhaps not very well, in the 19th century.

Westminster Abbey has long been regarded as the last resting place of the most famous Englishmen, although no Kings have been buried there since George II. There are also many monuments to famous men who are not actually buried in the Abbey, such as Disraeli, Salisbury, Charles Bannerman, Asquith, Joseph Chamberlain, and Shakespeare, Milton, Scott, Gray, Burns, Coleridge, and Wordsworth.

Immediately inside the West Tower is the Tomb of the Unknown Warrior whose body was interred on the 11th November, 1920. Amongst the inscriptions on the grave is the following:

"They buried him among the Kings because he had done good toward God and toward his house."

Possibly some brethren were present to see the Coronation of our present King and Queen in Westminster Abbey. I have been privileged to see many magnificent ceremonies in England and in other parts of the Empire, but never have I imagined such a magnificent and moving ceremony as that which I witnessed in Westminster Abbey on that occasion. As will be appreciated, the normal seating accommodation of the Abbey is quite inadequate, and tier upon tier of seats were erected throughout the Abbey. We were fortunate in England at that time to have a very able and extremely artistic First Commissioner of Works, and the whole scheme of decoration, which was dark blue and gold, was simply magnificent. The music and the general pageantry were the essence of solemn grandeur and solemnity almost beyond description.

As you are aware, on the 10th May, 1940, the Abbey was damaged in a bombing raid. The low tower in the centre was burnt and destroyed and the debris fell on the actual site of the Coronation in the Lantern, leaving the roof open to the sky. Fortunately, there was a 4,000-gallon tank in the western tower which probably saved the Abbey from total destruction, and we can be happy in the thought that there has been no permanent structural damage.

Westminster Abbey has been described as (1) the great centre of the Empire's spiritual life" and (2) "the most lovely and lovable thing in Christendom." Westminster Abbey is indeed the heart of the Empire, and we are greatly indebted to the Right Reverend Paul de Labillière, Dean of Westminster and formerly Bishop of Knaresborough, and also to Mr. W. J. Jordan, High Commissioner for New Zealand in London, and the New Zealand Shipping Company for facilitating the arrival of these stones in New Zealand.

May these ashlar, fashioned from stones from Westminster Abbey, damaged by a pagan enemy, be an inspiration to us all and help us to do our duty as Masons to God, The King, and our fellow-men.

At the conclusion of the address the Senior Warden stepped down from his Chair to the table in front of his pedestal, on which the ashlar were standing covered with a flag, and formally unveiled them and dedicated them to their future use.

The Wor. Master then called upon the Director of Ceremonies, W. Bro. E. A. Wallace, to read the inscriptions. The plate fastened to the stand of each ashlar bears the same wording :

THIS ASHLAR
IS A PIECE OF 13TH CENTURY REIGATE STONE
TAKEN FROM THE DAMAGED PORTION OF
WESTMINSTER ABBEY
AFTER THE BOMBING ON MAY 10TH, 1941.
THE RIGHT REVEREND PAUL DE LABILLIERE,
DEAN OF THE ABBEY, PRESENTED THE STONE TO WESTMINSTER LODGE.
UNVEILED MAY, 1942.

Dedicating the ashlar, Bro. His Lordship H. St. Barbs Holland, Bishop of Wellington, said:—

When a few minutes ago I saw the two ashlar unveiled, there was one word from the Sacred Writings which flashed to my mind. "What mean ye by these stones?" Bro. Calder has in his address expounded in a very vivid way their symbolic meaning. As the roughly-squared stone becomes one of perfect proportion so character is shaped and chiselled by the experience of years and the direction of God's Spirit towards the ideal of perfection.

I want in the few minutes during which I speak to you to suggest another meaning that we can attach to these stones. Do they not serve to remind us who are assembled here of the debt we owe to the pioneers in this country who brought with them the faith of their fathers? As years go by the actual links and memories of the Old Country will fade and our generation will be succeeded by new generations which know not the rock from which they were hewn. For them as for us these stones are symbols. They are stones from a holy building reminding us not only of the national character but of the spiritual heritage which our forefathers brought with them from the Mother Country.

Remember that these stones were hewn in the first instance not simply to provide shelter from wind and weather but to express the uprising of the human spirit towards God, the author of all life. The work of the builders of Westminster Abbey were far removed from being utilitarian. It expresses itself in richness of design and in wealth of ornamentation, as those of us who have visited the Abbey know well, which are an enduring commentary on the divine truth about life that man cannot live by bread alone.

The events of to-day are themselves stressing the value of the message of these stones. The links between us and our Mother Country must become closer and closer in these days of common peril not only in defence of our material and economic possessions, but also in defence of the great imponderable values for which we stand to-day. The bonds which unite us to Britain are not only those of common interest but bonds which take their strength from a common heritage and a rich tradition.

It is for that reason that these stones from Westminster Abbey will ever be a treasured possession of the Westminster Lodge. They will take us back in recollection to the stately building which stands in the centre of the Empire's life as guardian of the mother of Parliaments proclaiming to all who pass that way that God reigneth over all.

Placing one hand on each Ashlar, Bro. Holland concluded with the formal dedication:

"By this act I dedicate and set aside these stones for the Masonic purpose for which they are intended, and to the glory of God.

"O Almighty God, Maker of Heaven and Earth, who didst choose the stone which the builders rejected, who dost over-rule the imperfect designs of men for Thy glory: Look upon us in mercy and so direct our building, that, established upon sure foundations and joined together in unity of spirit, we may be made an holy temple acceptable to Thee."

Bro. R. L. Button, Chaplain of the Lodge, then read the passage from the V.S.L. known as "Solomon's Prayer": I Kings, viii, 22-42.

The Wor. Master expressed the thanks of the Lodge to those who had taken part in the ceremony. Before the Lodge was closed, R.W. Bro. Stone, Prov.G.M., at the Wor-Master's request, presented to Bros. G. G. Shirtcliffe and W. G. Harrison, two members of the Lodge, their Grand Lodge Certificates as Master Masons.

In the refectory a further informal ceremony took place. The Wor. Master called upon Bro. His Excellency Sir Cyril Newall to unveil a pictorial representation of the Badge of the Lodge; the chief charges from the coat of arms and crest of the City of Westminster, the Portcullis, and the united red and white Roses of Lancaster and York, being incorporated. Sir Algernon Tudor-Craig, Librarian to the United Grand Lodge of England, had submitted the design, and the Grand Secretary had obtained permission from the City of Westminster for the charges to be incorporated in the Badge. The motto of the Lodge: "Loyal to God and King" appears below.

In unveiling the Badge, Bro. Newall spoke briefly about the City of Westminster, recalling scenes familiar to many of the brethren present.

The evening was in many respects unique. It will form a pleasant and inspiring memory for the large number of brethren who were present.

MASONRY.

"In all lands where Masonry does not now exist and where the great light of the Order does not shine, dawn soon will appear, and the Masonic beacon will shine forth with all its splendour, providing those countries expect peace, prosperity and good-will towards all.

"The very fact that throughout the United States and the British Empire, and among other free and enlightened peoples of the world, so many who are interested in conserving civil, social and political order are active and prominent Masons, alone proves that Masonry is a thoroughly patriotic and loyal institution, believing in good Government, which requires good men and true to represent it.

"Masonry is an institution honouring God. It is a social order with a system of government. It is an educating influence. It is of non-partisan character. It contains all the essential and necessary elements of true brotherhood, destined to exist and prosper, world without end."

BIBLE LESSON.

A Brigade Major with General Allenby's forces in Palestine during the last war was reading his Bible one night by the light of a candle, looking for the name "Mishmash." His brigade had been ordered to capture a village of that name which stood on a rocky hill just across a deep valley. The name had seemed vaguely familiar.

Finally, in Samuel I, Chapter 13, he read: "And Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people with them, abode in Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philistines encamped in Mich-mash." The major went on to read how Jonathan and his armour-bearer went over to the Philistines' garrison alone one night, through a pass that had "a sharp rock on the one side, and a sharp rock on the other side: and the name of one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh." They climbed the rocky hill till they came to "a half acre of land, which a yoke of oxen might plow." Then the Philistines awoke, thought they were surrounded by the armies of Saul, and "the multitude melted away."

Saul then attacked with his whole army, and "so the Lord saved Israel that day."

The major thought to himself, "This pass, those two rocky headlands and the flat piece of ground are probably still there." He woke the brigadier, and they read over the story. Scouts were sent out and found the pass, thinly held by the Turks; rocky crags were on either side—obviously Bozez and Seneh—and high up in Mishmash moonlight showed a small flat piece of ground.

Then and there the general changed his plan of attack: instead of sending the whole brigade; one company alone was sent along the pass at dead of night. The few Turks met were silently dealt with; the hill was climbed; and just before dawn the company found itself on the flat bit of ground. The Turks awoke, thought they were surrounded by the armies of Allenby, and fled in disorder. Every Turk in Mishmash was killed or captured that night.

And so, after thousands of years, the tactics of Saul and Jonathan were repeated with success by a British force. —Major Vivian Gilbert, "Romance of the Last Crusade" (Appleton-Century).

SUPREME GRAND ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER OF NEW ZEALAND.

A meeting of Supreme Committee was held on 30th April.

The Chairman, R.E. Comp. J. R. Robertson, extended a welcome to M.E. Comp. Sandford, Pro G.Z., who had travelled from Raetihi to attend the meeting. He, the Pro G.Z., advised that at the request of the First Grand Principal he had paid official visits to the Taranaki and Ruapehu Districts.

It was resolved that the time allowed by Law 16 for payment of fees for Grand Officers be extended by one month.

The quotation of Messrs. Wyatt & Wilson Ltd. for printing 1,000 copies of the Ritual was accepted. Grand Officers, 1943/1944: M.E. Comp. Geo. Russell, P.G.Z., R.E. Comp. S. T. S. Martin, P.G.H., and V.E. Comp. H. Hatch, P.G.D.C., were appointed a Committee to prepare and submit to the next meeting a scheme of distribution of Grand Officers for 1943/1944.

M.E. Comp. Sir Cyril Newell, G.Z., wrote conveying the following message from Lord Bledisloe :—

"In token of my most happy association with New Zealand Freemasonry and in appreciative recognition of the honour which my New Zealand brethren have conferred upon me, I should much like to present either to the Grand Lodge of New Zealand or its Royal Arch Chapters some article of furniture or equipment which may seem appropriate to the Chief Officers of Grand Lodge or to the Grand Z. and his colleagues. I would gladly pay £25 sterling for it."

The Grand Z. advised that the message had been referred to Grand Lodge, who thought that the offer was for Grand Chapter. Resolved that:

Supreme Committee gratefully accept the gift on behalf of Grand Chapter and that Lord Bledisloe be informed accordingly.

That R.E. Comp. R. C. Burton and V.E. Comp. L. C. Gibbins confer with Bledisloe Chapter, No. 77, as to the nature and design of the gift.

That the gift become the property of Bledisloe Chapter, No. 77.

GREAT PRIORY OF THE ORDER IN THE TEMPLE OF SCOTLAND.

DISTRICT GRAND PRIORY OF NEW ZEALAND.

Extracts from the Minutes of the Annual Meeting held on Tuesday, 17th February, 1942, in the Hinemoa Masonic Temple, Donald McLean Street, Wellington South.

There was a good attendance, including most of the Officers of District Grand Priory, which was opened by the V.E. D.G. Prior, followed by prayer. The Muster Roll revealed that each of the twelve Preceptories under District Grand Priory were represented. District Grand Treasurer presented a Statement of Receipts and Payments showing a credit balance of £18 14s. 9d. Reference was made to the passing of the D.G. Beaucennifer, Ven. Fra. W. J. Churchill, and a standing vote was recorded. The Secretary's report showed a total membership of 374 members.

Most of the Preceptories had complied with the requirements of Great Priory regarding annual meetings and Installations.

V.E. Fra. Russell, D.G. Prior, expressed his sincere thanks to those Officers of District Grand Priory who conducted the various meetings and to officers and members of Preceptories for their continued co-operation and support.

District Grand Secretary referred to the uncertainty of receiving Certificates and other matters from Great Priory and appealed for assistance from Secretaries re outstanding orders or any they may have received direct.

Great Priory is most anxious that Preceptories should keep faith with the terms of their Charters and the Book of Statutes by holding Musters regularly, if only for short session, and forward returns as early as possible.

Great Priory has made ample provision by way of Dispensation to enable the smallest Preceptory to carry on for the duration.

By order of the Grand Master the following circular was issued for information:—

"Under present circumstances a general dispensation is issued to Preceptories authorising that the requirements of the Statutes relating to Compulsory Musters may be waived, but this does not imply an order not to meet."

"This dispensation also covers permission to alter time, date and place; for example many Preceptories might find it possible to hold a Muster on Saturday or other afternoon."

"If possible, an Election and Installation Muster should be held, the Installation Ceremony being cut down to the Administration of the Oath of Office to the Officers."

"It is thought that many Preceptories may wish to continue their present officers in office, the authority is given for this without the formality of a Muster for Election and Installation in such Preceptories as find it impossible to hold such a Muster."

In addition, the V.E. District Grand Prior has recommended that for the duration in order to make it convenient for members engaged in Home Service that they assemble in morning dress and if possible at the earlier hour as authorised by Great Priory.

In the past there have been some omissions by Elected Officers to forward Patent of Office fees and it was decided to withhold the patent until the fee has been received.

Leave of absence was granted to all Fraters unable to attend the Annual Muster.

REVIEW OF PROCEEDINGS OF FOREIGN GRAND LODGES.

(Published by the Authority of the Grand Lodge of New Zealand.)

MONTANA-1941.

136 Lodges, 17,811 members, a gain of 6.

75th Annual Communication held at Missoula, 20th and 21st August. M.W. Bro. John T. Orr, G.M., presiding. Eighteen P.G.Ms. were present.

Six Special Communications were held, two to lay cornerstones, one to constitute a Lodge and three to dedicate Temples.

There were 33 men and 11 women, of an average age of over 70, in the Masonic Home.

The Communication was described as the "Diamond Jubilee" of the Grand Lodge, and M.W. Bro. Lew L. Callaway, P.G.M., delivered a commemorative address, in the course of which he said: "In 1916 there were 101 active Lodges, with 9,902 members. Following our entry into the war in April, 1917, our membership increased heavily. In retrospect, we realise that this was not altogether beneficial. In the hysteria of war our Lodges permitted too much laxity. Men in considerable numbers who did not measure up to our standards were admitted; a large number of these disappeared from our rolls for one reason or another. It is impossible to create a Mason by the mere process of initiation. If one is not a Mason in his heart, he never is a Mason. We lost members also because of the great depression starting in 1929, which is not yet ended. Nevertheless, the present Grand Lodge has 136 constituent Lodges, all active, with a combined membership of 17,809, and the membership is increasing all over the state.

"I hope and believe that we have learned that it is quality and not quantity which is to be regarded with favour; I wish we could have both."

The Grand Chaplain, R.W. Bro. Dr. John A. Meeke, spoke on Life's Long Trail—a short but able and inspiring address.

M.W. Bro. Canon S. H. Middleton, P.G.M. of Alberta, delivered a splendid address, the finish of which was greeted with "standing applause." His theme was the need for a "League of Masons," and in the course of his address he said: "And here I want to fling out the challenge this morning, that never in the course of human history was so much needed for so many from so few, and it is to us who are Masons who can and ought to save it from destruction. Let every Mason of every Lodge, of every Grand Lodge, join in unison and say: WE CAN and WE WILL."

"One last thought. Wherever I have been during the past several weeks in the Eastern and Western States of America I have been touched with emotion to see the Stars and Stripes on the one hands and the Red, White and Blue of the Union Jack on the other; and the sight of these two emblems of two great nations has given me a holy thrill. Therefore I say to you, my brother Masons of America, and especially to my brethren of Montana, these two countries, which God in His infinite wisdom has brought together, let no man cast asunder."

The Reviews of other Jurisdictions are published in a separate volume of 102 pages. A very appreciative summary of our 1939 Proceedings is included.

989 Lodges, 189,184 members, a loss of 3,652.

102nd Annual Meeting held at Chicago, 14th and 15th October, M.W. Bro. Dan De Baugh, G.M., presiding. All of the nine living P.G.Ms. were present. Distinguished visitors from nine other U.S.A. and one Canadian jurisdictions were welcomed.

The G.M. reported that no Lodge was then two years in arrears, which was the first time for many, many years. There were 124 men and 56 women in the Masonic Home, 64 being in the Hospital; and 121 children in the Orphans' Home.

The Grand Orator, R.W. Bro. Edgar A. Jones, delivered the customary oration.

The minimum fee for the three degrees was fixed at 30 dollars, and in the cities of 50,000 or more 50 dollars.

The Lodges are divided into 100 Districts, each supervised by a District Deputy Grand Master.

There is a very long list of "Grand Lecturers" whose duties are not clear to us.

The Review of Foreign Jurisdictions, covering 103 pages, was contributed by M.W. Bro. Elmer E. Beach, P.G.M., who in the course of his Foreword said: —

"During the past twelve years the net loss in membership in most English-speaking Grand Lodges, outside of England, has been disturbing. This loss has been less pronounced in the Canadian and Australian Grand Lodges than in those of the United States, while in England there has been a net gain. We have never been satisfied with the cheerful and complacent explanation by so many Grand Masters that this has been a "weeding out" process and elimination of useless dead timber and that, as a result, the Lodges would be stronger, more virile and useful than heretofore. Like most half truths, this explanation has failed to explain. There is probably little doubt that a large number of victims of the weeding out process were earnest, sincere Masons, who would have been glad to retain their memberships, but who had been overtaken by financial misfortune, economic reverse, or unemployment. That this is not mere theory has been proved by the reports of the officers and committees of many individual Lodges who were not inoculated with the too prevalent virus of indifference and apathy, and who acted in accordance with an intelligent and fraternal analysis of conditions and sincerely believed that as careful and thorough an investigation of conditions should be made before brethren were 'purged' as was made when they sought admission to the Fraternity."

His Review of New Zealand, 1940, is short but informative and appreciative. He has made one mistake, however, in showing V.W. Bro. Mason as Grand Secretary.

INVESTIGATING CANDIDATES.

There is perhaps no duty pertaining to the affairs of the Lodge and to Masonry that is more important, nor one that is more neglected and abused, than that of a proper investigation of those who seek to become members in the fraternity.

How few brethren there are who fully comprehend the real service and the real responsibility that is implied when he accepts the obligation of investigating character of a petitioner for the degrees in Masonry.

The purpose of this article is to outline, to some extent, just what each member of an investigating committee should do, and the brother who for any reason cannot fulfil the requirements should so notify the Master at once that the business of the Lodge may not be delayed.

Each member of a committee should be provided with the name and address of the candidate, and each should bear in mind that he is required to see the candidate personally and interview him. Each should proceed at once, without delay, so that prompt and intelligent report may be made, remembering that each must investigate individually and report separately, in person.

The best procedure is to call upon the candidate in his home, by appointment. By so doing you have opportunity to observe general surroundings and will, to a considerable degree, be able to learn whether or no he can afford to spend the money that is necessary to make him a Mason. If that is not possible, invite him to call upon you at your office.

Verify his age, occupation, how long he has lived in the jurisdiction and where previous. Ask him frankly what was his motive that prompted him to petition, what benefit, pecuniary or otherwise, he expects to derive from being a Mason. If he is married, learn whether his action meets the approval of his family and if the money he is to spend in that way will deprive his dependents of things they need more.

Determine what his religious ideas are, particularly as to a belief in God. What are his habits, especially as to temperance, profanity and associates. Where and how does he spend his evenings and Sundays. Learn as to his physical qualifications, whether he- can conform to the various requirements. Find out whom he patronises in a business way, and learn from them whether he takes care of his obligations. Does he understand the seriousness of Masonry and does he realise that it is not merely a place of entertainment and amusement or social centre.

When you have learned all you can by personal contact with the candidate, verify your conclusions and make further investigation among his acquaintances and associates.

Finally, permit no sentiment to enter into your consideration. Deal honestly and on cold facts and based on careful observation and diligent inquiry, Make your report positive; either favourable or unfavourable. A report that you find nothing particular against him, or that he is as good as some others who are members is no report at all. Such a report is sufficient grounds for rejection, and merits it. A candidate should always possess sufficient good qualifications to recommend him, otherwise he should not be admitted.

It is a deplorable fact that three-fourths of our investigations are merely perfunctory. A little inquiry among two or three who know a little something of the candidate, a mere acquaintance in many instances, and a favourable report is forthcoming.

Little wonder that Lodges are frequently put to shame by the actions of some member; little wonder that there are so many Lodge trials, so much friction and ill-feeling. The facts are, and the cause may be traced directly to an investigation that did not investigate, otherwise the offending party would not be in a position to make trouble.

A ROBERT BURNS STORY.

From an early Scotch edition of Bro. Robert Burns' letters and poems, and from a letter of Gilbert Burns, his home brother, friend, and confidant, dated "Mossgiel, 2nd April, 1798," we gather the following:—

"The poem, 'Death and Doctor Hornbook,' though not published in the Kilmarnock edition of Robert's poems, was produced early in the year 1785. The schoolmaster of Tarbolton set up a shop of grocery goods. Having fallen in with some medical books, he added the sale of a few medicines to his little trade. He got a shopbill printed, at the bottom of which he advertised that advice in common disorders would be given, gratis, at his shop.

"Robert about this time was at a Masonic meeting in Tarbolton when the 'Doctor' or 'Dominie' (groceryman and schoolmaster) unfortunately made a too ostentatious display of his medical skill. As Robert departed that evening from the place where he describes his meeting with death, one of those float-ideas of apparition, such as he mentions in a letter to Doctor Moore, crossed his mind. This set his brain to work on his way home. These circumstances (of production of the poem) he related when he repeated the verses to me the next afternoon, as I was holding the plough and he was letting the water off the field beside me."

John Wilson was a schoolmaster in Tarbolton; he was a fair scholar and a very worthy man, but vain of his knowledge in medicine—so vain that he offered advice gratis. As stated, it was his misfortune to encounter Burns at a Masonic meeting, who, provoked by a long and pedantic speech from the Dominie, exclaimed, "Sit down, Doctor Hornbook." On his way home the Masonic poet laureate, Burns, seated himself on the ledge of a bridge, composed the poem and, overcome with poesie and drink, fell asleep and did not wake until the sun was shining over Galston Moors. The first verse reads:

Some books are lies from end to end,
And some great lies were never penn'd;
Even ministers, they ha'e been kenn'd;
In holy rapture,
A rousing whid, at times to vend.
And nail't wi' Scripture.

The hornbook was an elementary school book used in England down to the time of George II. It was made of a single leaf, on which were written the alphabet in large letters, the Roman numerals and the Lord's Prayer. The leaf was sometimes pasted on a slice of transparent horn, hence the name. It had a handle through which a string was inserted to tie around the waist. —Masonic Journal of South Africa.

THE BELIEF IN IMMORTALITY.

By Bro. Rev. W. H. Irwin.

Upon every Freemason there is impressed the value of the contemplation of death. We are invited, to reflect upon the closing hour of our existence, and are led to think solemnly of our inevitable destiny. Some may object that meditation on so sombre a subject tends to lower our vitality. Rather, they urge, let us think of bright and happy things so that life goes merrily as a song. Doubtless extravagant contemplation of death may sink into morbidity, and by the too much dreaming on the grave, one may lose touch with the practical affairs of life. To the healthy mind, however, nothing but good can come from meditating on this awful subject. We do not overcome our fears by seeking to banish them from our thoughts, but, by facing them boldly. In this way our minds may bid defiance to mortality, and seek to tread the king of terrors beneath our feet. Life brings us many adventures, and we pass continually to new scenes where we must play our part. "We pass through many opening doors into knowledge, into beauty, into love and the fulness of life. At length we stand before the last open door and look out into the dark. Does it usher us to a new and thrilling adventure or is it the end of the whole story?"

"Strange is it not? That of the myriads who Before us pass'd the door of darkness thro'
No one returns to tell us of the road
Which to discover we must travel, too."

From the dawn of history man has been surrounded by marvels and wonders, which at first seemed absolutely inexplicable, and therefore appalling. But, one after another, he has succeeded in explaining them. Nevertheless, one secret remains as of old—unfathomable, inscrutable. We are still seeking an answer to the question, man giveth up the ghost and where is he?

One answer to this question is the doctrine of the immortality of the soul. The problem of a future existence was born long ago, but it never grows old. Each generation finds it nagging at its mind for a solution. No failures to solve the problem can crush the spirit of inquiry. The idea of a future life is thought to have arisen from the phenomena of dreams. In sleep, man's soul seemed to be independent of his body and to wander away at will. Likewise his departed friends appeared to him in the land of dreams. But there are much deeper reasons for the widespread prevalence of the belief in immortality. Man is by nature a rationalizer. He cannot and never does accept the facts of life, or human experience, at their face value. We live, we die. These are facts. But man seeks to know the reason why. Hence, as he contemplates human life and death, growth and decay, he finds so much that this earthly life is totally unable to explain that he is driven perforce to suppose a future life. In other words, the idea of immortality is necessary to give sense and meaning to our present existence. Are we justified in thus seeking to explain our present life in terms of an immortal life? Nobody can deny that existence after death is possible. The Power which has brought us into existence must surely be able to work the lesser marvel of continuing us in existence. Survival is certainly possible. The practical question for us is whether it is probable.

We shall find, I think, that our view of human destiny depends upon two things. In the first place it depends upon our estimation of the value of human nature. A future life appears probable or improbable as we think nobly or ignobly of the soul. When, we guide our reflections to that most interesting of all human studies, the knowledge of ourselves, what do we discover? What opinions do we form of the nature of man? Some, beholding our animal origin, consider that primarily our lives are directed towards satisfying our hunger and reproducing our species. To them we are as the beasts that perish. Consequently they see no reason why our fate should be any different from that which we believe awaits them. Thus, the estimation of the value of man settles the problem of immortality for those who think in this way. For them death ends all.

But when we think nobly of man's nature, a future life becomes easily credible. Man is more than a bundle of blind animal instincts. Nature has endowed him with memory and imagination. She opens up before him long vistas of thought and wonder. "She dowers his heart with love of love, the hate of hate. She even lures him on with the vision splendid of spiritual communion with the Eternal." When Hamlet reflected upon human life he exclaimed: What a piece of work is a man! How noble in reason! How infinite in faculties; in form and moving how express and admirable in action, how like an angel, in apprehension how like a god! "If a man die, shall he live again?" It depends on what we mean by man.

The whole question is at bottom one of values. In the course of his life man learns of truth, of beauty and of goodness. These supreme values are, as it were, wrapped up in his personality. But if death blots out the souls of men, no matter how noble their characters have become, if all are simply thrown to the scrap heap, this is a mad world. Yet the study of nature shows the universe to be rational. By using his reason man progressively understands the world in which he lives, because the same kind of reason and thought created that world and sustains it. Science assures us that the universe is not insane. We infer then that the highest values, expressed in human lives, are not wasted, but a rational universe conserves them all.

The second basis upon which the belief in immortality rests is the character of God. This demands human survival. For the Divine Creator would be none other than a cynical maker of useless experiments if men who have sought to serve Him here perish utterly as their bodies decay. Can we believe that God plays with us as children with sand castles, building elaborately and content to see the waves wash all away? For children play with senseless sand, but men and women think and feel. "Pietro, the tyrannical Duke of Florence, in one of his capricious moods, ordered Michael Angelo to mould a statue of snow—a statue that the warmth of an Italian sun would dissolve in a single day. A sad waste of artistic skill. But that is as nothing compared to the prostitution of creative power in making beings like, ourselves to rot forever in the tomb." The deepest part of our nature cries out that God could not be so cynically wasteful, for then He would be inferior even to ordinary men, how much more to the noblest and truest of our race.

In every age when the problem of immortality is debated—and it has been debated in every age—we meet with two opposing types, two contrary attitudes towards the question. One is affirmative, the other negative. Though the desire for a life after death is so human that it may almost be said to be universal, yet there has always been a minority who have held death as the total end of us all, and this minority is probably larger now than in any former period. Some do not wish to survive, but actually welcome the thought of extinction. They gladly think of death as a sleep from which there is no waking, where all the ache of life is ended and all desire killed. Perhaps we all have had this thought at times, but it is when our lives are tired, our hopes are low, and the times seem out of joint. On the other hand, when we feel most alive and vigorous in soul and body, when we feel surest that we are at our best and our thought at its best, then do we desire immortality and feel in our bones that a universe which could allow human personality to vanish would be no better than a mad universe.

Most men will admit that there is great force in the argument that a rational universe will not allow the values created in human life to utterly perish. But is it possible to conserve human values without preserving the individuals who have produced those values? Important thinkers of our day answer that it is possible, Individual values are incorporated in social values, they urge. "Social and political institutions survive their founders; the poet's and the artist's work survives to be a source of delight and inspiration for centuries after the poet and the artist have become dust; a good life is a source of moral inspiration to many generations; even the most intimately personal goods, our loves and affections live on after us in their effects on the lives and characters of those we leave behind."

Though God buries His workmen, He carries on His work, and it is the work and not the tools which is the great thing. God's work, on this view, is to build up His Kingdom on earth. Therefore, when we look to the future, let us not worry over our own petty interests. Let us set before us the ideal of a perfect social state as an object worthy of our reverence, commanding the utter devotion of our lives.

These things shall be; a loftier race
Then e'er the world hath known shall rise,
With flame of freedom in their souls
And light of knowledge in their eyes.
New arts shall bloom of loftier mould,

And mightier music thrills the skies,
And every life shall be a song
When all the earth is paradise.

This is a grand ideal, with which all men of goodwill must sympathise. But, alas! though all those beateous ages we shall moulder cold and low, without even a faint glow of satisfaction in knowing that we helped on the great consummation.

You will notice that this argument for corporate immortality, in place of individual immortality, takes for granted the performance of the human race, for if the race is not immortal, all human values are doomed to destruction at the last. Now, so far as science is able to see to-day, there is no more reason for believing in the immortality of the race than for believing in that of the individual. Scientists tell us that our world is cooling down, and must inevitably become unfit for human habitation. There must come a time when the human race begins to fail, and we can foresee for our civilisation, no matter how perfect it may become, only a long drawn-out but inevitable death from senile decay.

The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit shall dissolve,
And, like this unsubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind.

Further, the belief in a perfect earthly society is doomed to disappointment if each and every man is annihilated at death. Of those who hold the contrary we must say that their hearts are better than their heads. For a while they may comfort themselves with the notion of self-sacrifice. They may think, "What matter if I pass! let me think of others." But the others have become contemptible to no less than their own selves. What is the use of spending ourselves for the benefit of future generations who are to be as evanescent as we are supposed to be?

Manifestly it makes a great difference to the conduct of life whether we believe ourselves and our fellows to be only transient appearances, mere bubbles on the stream of time, or pilgrims in search of a city whose builder and maker is God. The Freemason who in all his pursuits keeps eternity in view will have a general attitude towards this life which will be distinctive. He will see passing events in their true perspective. The petty worries that harass our daily life, even great sorrows, will appear to him in a different light as he realizes that they are but for a time. The very idea of immortality can give to common men a widening of their horizon, a sense of the dignity of life, and a feeling of freedom. The sure and certain hope of everlasting life has inspired men to great deeds and long tasks.

Change and decay in all around we see, but the doctrine of a future life bestows upon us a sense of performance otherwise lacking. "The hopes we form of our few and hurrying years on earth certainly have little stability unless truly they are backed by hopes that go beyond." If I think nobly of the soul, my idea of the education fitted for it will differ widely from that of the man who regards men as animals, who have to be taught some tricks to make them profitable or least injurious to society. Our sense of the solemnity of life will grow the more we are convinced that our conduct now must influence the destinies of our own and other souls forever.

Immortality or Mortality. Which shall we believe! The issue is not only theoretical; it is intensely practical. Also the issue cannot be avoided. Shall we live as if we were immortal, or shall our hopes and fears be confined to this life only? Here, in Pascal's words, you must make the wager. Not to bet is equivalent to betting against.

TRANSITION.

Nearly twenty years ago Dr. Inge wrote : "The future will show whether civilisation, as we know it, can be mended or must be ended. The time seems ripe for a new birth of religious and spiritual life, which may remould society, as no less potent force would have the strength to do." The question whether civilisation is to be mended or ended is to-day a very urgent and terrifying one. Unless a definite victory is attained against Nazism in a comparatively short time and a stalemate avoided civilisation as we know it may well go down the drain. Years ago the late Bishop of Ripon raised a violent but quite unintelligent storm by saying that man's scientific advance had so outstripped his moral and spiritual advance as to constitute a grave danger.

He was perfectly right. Science daily puts into our hands ever greater powers. But unless there is an advance in moral character equal to the advance in knowledge the results must be mischievous. It is like putting a stick of dynamite into the hands of a stupid, reckless, and ill-matured body of men. The fruits of knowledge without moral character are what we are experiencing to-day. Will the new birth of spiritual life which Dr. Inge so wisely declared necessary manifest itself?

There have been several times since 1900 when such a thing seemed possible. In the opening years of the century, when the dead hand of nineteenth-century was being lifted, writers in England, France, Germany, Spain and Russia, as well as in other lands were expressing, each in his own way, the same thought that Eucken expressed in Germany when he said that the Spirit of God was "blowing amid the dead bones of the world." But heady Imperialism in England and a growing nationalism in every country in Europe were not then friendly to the growth of spiritual religion.

After World War I there was much talk here and there of the need for "spiritual sanctions" if civilisation was to be rebuilt. But there seemed to be a desire rather to use God than to serve Him. Indeed, it might almost be said that politicians and public men generally wished to co-opt God that He might make Himself generally useful. Yet the one great truth which Communism, Fascism, and Nazism agree in teaching is that man does not live by bread alone, but that some great ideal to which man can sacrifice himself is the one potent force strong enough to remould society. Guns before butter may not be an ethically good ideal and the remoulding of society which it effects more deforming than reforming, but it has a power which appeals that mere selfish and private aims will always lack. Will the Church or Freemasonry supply the potent force which will be needed?

Many spiritual leaders seem too inclined to promise a brave new world, too inclined to dwell on the enormous self-sacrifice and toil that will be called for. When peace comes it will not be a question of wearing patched pants. The lucky ones will be those who still have any pants to patch.—"Masonic Craftsman."

OBITUARY.

W. BRO. GEORGE F. SMITH.

There passed to his eternal rest on 1st May W. Bro. George Ferris Smith, of Lodge Oceanic, No. 15. A very large gathering of friends and members of the Craft paid their respects to his memory at the interment of one who was recognised as a zealous man and a true Freemason. The service at the Chapel was conducted by Craft members, W. Bro. Pearson, prayers and Scripture reading, and R.W. Bro. Col. Barclay a eulogy of our late brother's services as a man, a soldier and a Freemason. He was a brother that always endeavoured to bring forth the true spirit of Freemasonry and at all times gave of his best in the interest of the various Masonic bodies with which he was associated. At all times it was a pleasure to listen to him give the various charges with dignity and firmness, and though his voice is still for ever it will still ring in the ears and hearts of all who knew him. We recall his cheery smile and word of encouragement—it will long be remembered by those brethren and companions who were honoured by his friendship. To his wife and daughter our heartfelt sympathy is extended in their time of great sorrow and distress. May they find some comfort in the thought that our Bro. was honoured by those who knew him—by his comrades who served with him while fighting for the Empire in a distant land, by those who were associated with him in his daily walk of life, and by his brethren and companions in many Lodges. He leaves an example of a life well spent and of work well done. At the Chapel, the pall-bearers comprised members of the South African Veterans' Association (Boer War) and at the graveside, where Bro. Rev: Thompson, of Lodge Waverley, conducted the service, were representatives of Lodge Oceanic, No. 154, and Maori Chapter, No. 28.

AUCKLAND NOTES.

A Jubilee Church Service for Royal Arch Freemasons was held at St. Mary's Cathedral, Parnell, on Sunday, 10th May. There was a large attendance of Companions, who assembled in the Schoolroom and led by the M.E. the First Grand Principal, Sir Cyril Newell, proceeded to the church. E. Comp. V. Rev. Dean Fancourt conducted the service and gave a stirring address on Haggai, the Prophet. The First Lesson was read by R.E. Comp. James Armstead, Grand Superintendent, Auckland District, and the Second Lesson by M.E. Comp. Sir Cyril Newall. Altogether the gathering was a most fitting celebration of the Jubilee of R.A. Masonry.

There was a well-attended meeting of Sitting Masters at the Temple on Wednesday, 22nd April. W. Bro. Les. Salter occupied the chair and gave a resume of the work of the Service Brethren's Entertainment Committee. He then suggested that as the work of this committee had been much reduced it would be more appropriate for a Sitting Master to be in the chair. V.W. Bro. W. C. Finnis, W.M., Combined Forces Lodge, was unanimously elected Chairman.

Discussion on many points of mutual interest to the various Lodges took place. W. Bro. Salter was thanked for the good work that he had carried out as Chairman.

Bro. J. Seeley, of Lodge Onewa, No. 182, while holidaying in Kaikohe visited the Installation meeting.

Two well-known brethren in Lodge Selwyn, No. 274, Bros. L. J. Keyes and H. Rothery, had the pleasure of seeing their sons initiated into Freemasonry recently.

TARANAKI NOTES.

At Lodge Manaia on 11th May, the S.W., Bro. A. H. Yarrow, was duly installed as Master.

The ceremonial work went smoothly, the Prov.G.M. (a$ always) being efficient and impressive, It was stated by one speaker that the Lodge property was now free of debt and a substantial credit balance in hand. This is a splendid record, considering the comparatively short time the Lodge has been in existence.

Lodge Stratford was favoured by a visit from the G.Lect. V.W. Bro. A. Coleman, who gave a splendid lecture on the First Degree. He also spoke in the refectory, the subject being "Some English Poets." On 18th May the Past Masters of Lodge Ngamotu worked a Third Degree.

Bro. R. A. Wilton, S.W., of Lodge Taranaki, was installed as Master on 21st May. He is the 21st W.M. of the Lodge and there is some talk of having a "coming of age" celebration during the year.

Lodge Taranaki invariably has a happy, and bright annual gathering and this year was no exception. The Prov.G.M. is a charter member of this Lodge and was the third to occupy the Master's chair.

The first Master and virtually the founder of the Lodge, W. Bro. Hayton, P.G.St.B., was also present and spoke in the refectory. The high light of the evening was the speech of W. Bro. Hobbs in proposing the toast of the Prov. G.M. and G.L. officers. It was far above the average in every way, the matter excellent and the delivery pleasing.

Lodge Hawera, at the May meeting, raised a candidate on behalf of Lodge Manaia, the latter Lodge attending in force.

Lodge Ngamotu arranged to hold an emergency meeting early in the month to initiate a candidate, but the military authorities got in first and the candidate going to camp, the Masonic function had to be postponed.

Patea Kil., No. 18, put two brothers through the Third at the May meeting.

The Installation ceremony in Egmont R.A. Chapter was held on 4th May, when E. Comp. R. R. Curtis was installed as First Principal and the other officers invested. General regret was expressed that E. Comp. Fred Cook was too ill to attend. The Grand Superintendent, R.E. Comp. W. W. Thomson carried through the ceremony in good style, with dignity and confidence and the evening proved profitable and pleasant.

SOUTHLAND NOTES.

The installation of Bro. Michael Little as Master of Lodge Taringatura, No. 100, and the investiture of his officers on 9th May passed off most successfully.

R.W. Bro. A. Noble, Prov.G.M., was in attendance supported by a good following of Grand Lodge officers, and acted as Installing Master.

Owing to war restrictions and the prevailing influenza epidemic, the attendance was somewhat smaller than usual.

V.E. Comp. W. Kelman and officers of Southern Cross Cryptic Council, No. 3, worked the three degrees peculiar to this branch of Capitular Freemasonry in a most impressive manner at the quarterly meeting held on 16th May.

The work of Comp. G. G. Webb as P.G.W. at this meeting was of a particularly high order and called for high praise from members and candidates alike.

W. Bro. H. F. Drewe, a prominent Mason of many years in Lodge St. John, No. 94, and Lodge Waihopai, No. 189, was recently called to the Grand Lodge above after a somewhat prolonged illness. During his day our worthy brother not only served the Craft faithfully and well but took a keen interest in business affairs and the general well being of the community. As a foundation member of Lodge Waihopai, No. 189, he rendered excellent service to the Craft. By his passing Freemasonry and the world at large has lost one whose place will be hard to fill.

A bus load of members of Lodge Winton, No. 189, 21 all told, led by their Master, W. Bro. R. B. Wilson, paid an official visit to the recent Taringatura Installation.

R.W. Bro. Jas. Manson, P.Prov.G.M., assisted by G.L. officers and Past Masters, conducted the Installation of Lodge St. John, No. 94, on 21st May. Grand Lodge was represented by R.W. Bro. A. Noble, Prov.G.M., and many G. officers.

The ceremony of Exaltation was conducted by V.E. Comp. W. Allen, Z., and officers at the regular meeting of Southern Cross Royal Arch Chapter, No. 3, on 27th May.

R.E. Comp. Geo. H. Brown, G.Supt., was present at this meeting supported by a number of G. Chapter officers.

The Combined Social Committee is meeting with a fair measure of success this season in spite of war restrictions.

Arrangements are in hand to hold a meeting of Southern Cross Cryptic Council, No. 3, at Gore, at an early date this month.

The quarterly meeting of the Southland Preceptory of Knight Templars was set down for 30th May.

R.W. Bro. A. Noble, Prov.G.M., made fitting reference to the excellent services rendered to Lodge Taringatura, No. 100, by W. Bro. H. Graham, P.G.S., when speaking at the recent Installation of this Lodge. A feature of the festive board proceedings was the proposal of the health of "The Visitors" by W. Bro. T. Campbell and the dramatic "fire" which accompanies this toast.

R.W. Bro. A. Noble, Prov.G.M., and his usual strong following of G. Lodge officers attended the annual meeting of Lodge Waikaka, No. 151, on 25th May and installed W. Bro. G. C. Sim for a second term as Master. During the past twelve months this Lodge has functioned well.

Lodge Waihopai, No. 189, worked a "Third" at their regular meeting last month.

The annual report and balance-sheet recently issued by Lodge Harvey, No. 49, discloses another most successful year and reflects great credit on the retiring Master, W. Bro. F. J. Murray, and his officers.

E. and P. Bro. J. J. Griffiths, P.M.W.S., has been elected to "honorary" membership in Murihiku Rose Croix Chapter, No. 36.

Installation meetings will be held by Lodges Southern Cross, No. 9, and Fortitude, No. 64 (Bluff) this month.

Comp. N. Macwilliams delighted members of Southern Cross Royal Arch Chapter, No. 3, and Lodge Waihopai with a series of moving pictures at recent meetings.

The ceremony of Initiation was conducted by the Masters and officers of Lodge Harvey, No. 49, at their last regular meeting.

Past Masters of Lodge Waihopai, No. 189, with W. Bro. J. Chaplin in the chair, will work the Third Degree this month.

We regret to report that Bro. A. Bailey, of Lodge Southern Cross, No. 9, has lost a second son on active service.

Past Masters of Lodge Fortitude, No. 64, worked the First Degree at their regular meeting held on 16th May.

The First and Second Degrees were conducted on 19th May by the Master and Officers of Lodge Wallace, No. 129.

Members of Lodge Harvey, No. 49, in strong force attended Divine Service at the Holy Trinity Church (Gore) on Sunday, 31st May, when V.W. Bro. W. W. Powell, P.G. Chap., delivered a telling message of interest to Freemasons and the public generally.

Lodge Victoria, No. 147, passed an E.A. of Lodge Southern Cross, No. 9, at their regular meeting last month.

In the absence of ceremonial work at the forthcoming meeting of Lodge Victoria, No. 147, this month it has been arranged to conduct a series of "short talks" surrounding the following subject: "Does Freemasonry play a useful part in modern conditions." Two teams of speakers, three from Lodge St. John, No. 94, and three from Lodge Victoria, No. 147, will take part in the discussion, which should prove of outstanding interest to deep thinking members of the Craft.

Ill. Bro. C. B. Gibbs and Invercargill members of the Zealandia Consistory, 30°, journeyed to Dunedin on 23rd May and took part in the half-yearly meeting of this Masonic unit.

NORTH CANTERBURY NOTES.

The Ashley Chapter is having quite a busy time and holding on in spite of reduced numbers. V.E. Comp. Arthur Williamson, Z., and his Companions have worked hard for this Chapter.

V.E. Comp. Geo. Harlow, Scribe E., of Ashley Chapter, has been on the sick list but is getting on well again.

Bro. Ted Blackett, Ashley's true and trusty Secretary, has resigned after many years of reliable and faithful service and his place has been filled by Bro. L. D. J. Smith, P.O. Box 75, Rangiora. Bro. Blackett is the Senior Secretary in the North Group of Lodges, and has done wonderful work.

Kaikoura Lodge, under the guidance of W. Bro. L. McLeod, is getting along nicely and the meetings are now held on the second Thursday of each month.

It is pleasing to know that Mairaki has a couple of candidates and W. Bro. Prouse has a good kick off for his second year as Master.

Tawera is on the map again with a candidate and W. Bro. Stevens has his team in fine shape ready for the job.

W. Bro. Lancelot Watson is still going strong at Tawera and is hale and hearty.

Southern Cross and Ashley also have work on, and help each other as much as possible.

Amuri Lodge is having quiet but profitable meetings and the brethren are keeping their Lodge in running order and some very interesting talks have been given by the Past Masters on interesting subjects.

Acacia Lodge is having a spell at present and W. Bro. Dr. Page is preparing a programme of useful events for the winter months. Visitors are invited to visit this cosy, happy little Lodge.

W. Bro. Archie Hill, Master of Cheviot Lodge, is getting into gear and has a very attractive list of items for his brethren during the next few months.

Visiting in the North Group is drastically curtailed at present, therefore the Lodges welcome anyone who is handy to attend their meetings and help in the task of keeping going.

The Great North Group conference and re-union scheduled for August may have to be altered and curtailed owing to transport and other difficulties of staging a "full dress" show.

The Amberley Installation was a bright and brilliant function. W. Bro. Reg. Harris was installed for the second time as Master. R.W. Bro. Purchase and a special team of District Grand Lodge officers did the job in a faultless fashion. There was an attendance of over fifty—quite good under the circumstances.

The refectory proceedings were right up to standard. R.W. Bro. Purchase, D.G.M., made one of his usual inspiring and educative speeches and the St. Albans Quartette and other talent were in action. The Ladies, as usual, were thanked for their useful part in the "decorations and dainties."

W. Bros. Bathurst and Billens will be having a meeting shortly on important matters concerning their groups, and brethren will be notified regarding future arrangements.

R.W. Bro. C. S. Thompson and officers of Prov. Grand Lodge, have a busy time ahead and are overcoming their transport difficulties by various methods.

R.W. Bro. John Du Feu sends his kind regards to his many Masonic friends.

W. Bro. Cooper, of Mairaki Lodge, has been ill and the Group wish him a speedy recovery.

OTAGO.

Maori, No. 105.—The new year in Lodge Maori, No. 105, commenced on 1st March with the re-installation of W. Bro. A. McC. Ross as W.M. for the second consecutive term of office—an honour not frequently bestowed. We are grateful to W. Bro. Ross for undertaking again the onerous responsibilities which he ably discharged during 1940-41. He spent a very great deal of time in visiting other Lodges, in fact he constituted something of a record in that respect, until the workaday world recalled him from independence to the old life in which there is once more a figure that says the war effort means overtime, so Mac, like a dutiful Briton, left his life of comfort to do his bit for an old employer, and in doing that, of course, his Masonic visiting had to be reduced. His care of the Lodge, however, did not suffer and so on 1st March he found himself being re-installed in the Master's chair. Notwithstanding the difficulties of the times, some sixty-odd brethren gathered for the occasion, which was conducted by R.W. Bro. J. G. Dykes, Prov.G.M., and his G.L. officers. There were also present M.W. Bro. W. Lishner, P.G.M., and R.W. Bro. G. Barclay, P.D.G.M., whose presence in Masonic circles is as much loved as they are familiar. W. Bro. J. R. Gillies was re-invested as I.P.M., and welcome he is in this capacity for another year, for Jack is a kindly soul. W. Bro. E. T. Monk was invested as Deputy Master, Bro. A. A. Packer as S.W., and Bro. J. D. Rodger as J.W. The following are officers for the current year: Chap., Bro. A. H. Dowall; Treas., W. Bro. G. H. C. Green; Sec., W. Bro. A. Jordan; D. of C., W. Bro. J. C. Seelye; Org., V.W. Bro. Axel Newton; S.D., Bro. S. Marshall; J.D., Bro. R. H. Mayfield; I.G., Bro. G. W. Anderson; Tyler, Bro. R. W. Hughson; Stewards, Bros. John Key, A. A. Baird, E. Williams, Robt. Ross, F. Wheeler.

The April meeting saw the working of the Third Degree. The writer has not a note of the particulars, so readers must take it for granted that the working was well done. That is one thing, among many, that Maori can be justifiably proud. As everyone knows hereabouts, there are many "old stalwarts" who can be relied upon at short notice, and officers take their duties seriously, so slips are few. Nevertheless, it is not untimely to emphasize here the great need for Masons to rally round their Lodge. The calls of the war become increasingly pressing. Many simply cannot attend and, in their stead, it is up to those who can to do their part, even though much water may have flowed since last they took an active part in ceremonies.

This is now the time when brethren may show what their Freemasonry is worth—whether it is to them merely a hobby in which they have lost interest, or something more abiding which demonstrates the character of the man. Ritual has its uses for the sake, of form, tradition and good government; but underlying ritual lie principles. It is those principles we ought to recall to-day, so that not only shall our own particular Lodge immediately benefit by renewed interest of those who have become lackadaisical in Masonic affairs, but, adding to the sum of world opinion, we may help shape our destinies, more particularly our children's destinies, in the years which lie ahead.

Lectures in the three Tracing Boards were delivered at the May meeting. W. Bro. W. Thornicroft took the first and W. Bro. J. C. Seelye the second and third. Both brethren have the happy knack of delivering their lectures in a pleasant conversational manner that has no trace whatever of the recitation of a set piece. They understand the Boards thoroughly and explain their significance in a most lucid way. Brethren stood in silence in memory of the late R.E. Comp. Geo. F. Smith, of Maori Chapter, No. 28. W. Bro. Smith was a member of Lodge Maori, No. 105, for many years. He did much for Freemasonry both in Craft and Chapter. He has been for long Scribe E. and no Chapter surely had a better, few his compere. He will be much missed among us.
